HELP THE DISTRESSED.

The "Times" Opens a List.

In order to afford many of our citizens and the readers of THE TIMES an opportunity to extend relief to the many widows and orphans which the sad disaster at Nanaimo last Tuesday has left unprovided for, and their wants being really urgent, it has been suggested by several of our citizens that THE TIMES should open a list for their relief. Subscriptions then will be received at this office and deposited in the bank to the credit of Mayor Gibson to be applied as the Relief Committee may direct. Sums received as well as the names will be duly acknowledged through our columns from day to day.

The TIMES heads the list with.....$25

Disallowance.

Says the Ottawa Free Press: But the fact remains that not one of the Tory members elected in Manitoba and the Northwest Territory pledged to vote against the government on the disallowance question is prepared to carry out his pledge. They all want to shirk the issue and to excuse the policy of the ministers whom they support. Until the verdict given at the polls is reversed the outside world must adhere to the conclusion that Manitoba does not want railway competition.

CANADA-JAPAN ROUTE.

The Pacific Mail, Occidental and Oriental Companies.

The Canadian Route Contrasted with the Suez Canal.

A writer in the Whitehall Review, whilst speaking in general terms very highly of the article on the Canadian Pacific Railway which appeared in the July number of the Quarterly Review, took exception to some statements therein made as to the advantages claimed for the new Canadian route to China and Japan over the hitherto existing route viâ Suez. This criticism has elicited from the Quarterly Reviewer a statement of the grounds on which his original statements were based. This puts the case so clearly, and shows so conclusively what great advantages will be offered as regards passengers and mails to China and Japan by the Canadian route, that we think those interested in the Canadian route will thank us for reproducing the letter in question:

The writer says: While appreciating the terms in which you spoke in your issue of the 24th ult., of the article on the "Canadian Pacific Railway," in the January number of the Quarterly Review, I must ask you to allow me to show reason for objecting to the terms "optimistic" and "misleading" being applied to the opinions therein given on this new route to Japan and China. First let me say that, although not unacquainted with the position of the Pacific Mail and Occidental and Oriental Companies, and also aware that one or two sailing vessels have already delivered cargoes of tea to the Northern Pacific Railway, I purposely ignored such matters, as the main object of the article in question was to deal, not with the commercial, but rather with the Imperial aspects of the new route. The proposal which has been made to the British Government by the capable business men who direct the operations of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is an open secret. We may assume that, though its acceptance will be at large, their offer is, from the company's point of view, made on business rather than patriotic principles; and we may rest assured that those who make it see their way to make its acceptance not unprofitable to their shareholders. It is clear, too, that the American steam and rail lines appreciate the formidable nature of the rivalry which they will have to encounter from the Anglo-Canadian line, and this is shown, inter alia, by the systematic circulation from American sources of reports damaging to the Canadian Pacific Railway. Of the three points—Yokohama, Shanghai and Hongkong—at which the routes by the east and by the west will meet each other, the Canadian line's position towards the first is admittedly so far superior to anything that the Suez line can pretend to that we need not discuss it. Hongkong, being the farthest east, will be the point most favorable to the Suez Companies, but as you especially refer to, Shanghai, and as that port is a fair one for comparison, let us take it first.

"Referring to the current time-tables of the P. and O. Company, we find the passengers leaving London viâ Gibraltar on March 9th, and mails leaving viâ Brindisi on March 18th, will reach Shanghai on April 26th—i. e. in 48 and 39 days respectively. For the return the mails leaving Shanghai on May 28th, and reach London on July 11th, the passengers on July 19th—i. e. 44 and 52 days respectively. Now, allowing that make 13½ knots on the Pacific—a speed often attained on that route even by the P. and O. boats—that the mail train crosses the continent at 25 miles an hour—a speed easily maintained on a good line, with easy gradients; and controlled from ocean to ocean by one management and that the Atlantic service is performed, as under the new contract it will be, at between 15 and 16 knots, mails and passengers—for both travel together by this route—will reach London from Shanghai in thirty-two or thirty-three days.

Next, as to Hongkong, you say that, "with but a slight acceleration in speed," that mails could be placed in Hongkong by the P. and O. Company in 30 days, and in another place "in something like 28 or 29 days." Our ideas of "a slight acceleration of speed" are presumably not identical, for I calculate that, to fulfil your assertion, an increased speed of about 2½ knots over the increased speed called for by the new contract of 1888 would be necessary; and this, I submit, the P. and O. vessels will not maintain throughout the year. But, setting aside such calculations, is it not extraordinary that, if "a slight acceleration of speed" would have produced such gratifying results, the P. and O. Company, which has for years enjoyed a subsidy of £360,000 per annum for carrying the Indian and China mails, should not have given the public the benefit; or that the government, while making the new contract, should not have insisted upon the mails being delivered within the time you mention? At present the schedule time is from 35 to 37 days to Hongkong viâ Brindisi, and 44 to 46 days viâ Gibralta. I maintain that by the Canadian route would reach Hongkong in from 30 to 32 days. In submitting these calculations, it is not my wish in any way to depreciate or minimise the extreme importance and usefulness of the Suez route, but merely to point out that, in addition to affording a means of communication supplemental to that already existing, but the maintenance of which is admitted to be exceedingly risky, the new route claims to place us in such speedy communication with Japan and China as must command the attention of the government and people of England. As a matter of Imperial security, commercial convenience and common sense, the two routes should each be developed to the utmost. An alternative fortnightly departure by each would give England a first-class weekly service to China and Japan; commerce will follow the flag, and when this girdle round the world, and also an alternative Canadian route to Australasia, is established, the interests of the Empire will be much safer than at present, dependent as they now are in those distant possessions upon merely one long and easily breakable line of communication.

In the past sixteen years there never has been such a boom in immigration as now. Over four thousand passed through Montreal last week. More than this is looked for next week. The majority go to the Northwest and British Columbia.

THE YALE LIBEL CASE.

Its History up to the Present Time—Interesting Legal Points Raised.

As many of our readers are aware, the libel case of Wise vs. Tuttle, Felix Bossi, Revesbech, Elliott, Stott, Crotty and Irwin has been before the Courts in this city for some time. A re-hearing of the case was opened in the Supreme Court a short time since. Mr. Theo. Davie was solicitor for Wise; and Mr J. Roland Hett for all the defendants except Messrs. Stott and Crotty. The case being one of unusual interest we herewith give a resume thereof:

This was an action for libel, claiming $3,000 damages against the defendants jointly, commenced as to all the defendants, except Irwin, by writ issued September, 1885; and as to Irwin, by writ issued October, 1885. The libel alleged consisted of a memorial, signed by all the defendants and some thirty other persons, residents of Yale, addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, complaining of the conduct of Wise, Police Constable stationed at Yale, and requesting his removal. In November, 1885, a separate charge of libel against Irwin, in respect of a letter signed "Junius," published by him in that month, was allowed to be added to the action by order of Mr. Justice Crease. The action was tried at Victoria on the 6th and 7th October last, before the Chief Justice and a special jury. No evidence was offered against Stott and Crotty. A verdict was found for the plaintiff (Wise) against the defendants, Tuttle, Bossi, Revesbech, Elliott and Irwin, jointly, for $2,000, and against the defendant Irwin separately for $500. Judgment was signed on the 11th October, 1886. On the same day notices of application for a new trial and of appeal were given on behalf of Tuttle, Bossi, Revesbech, and Elliott. Executions having been issued, the Chief Justice, on the 12th October, ordered a stay of further proceedings for two days; that the defendants Tuttle, Bossi, Revesbech and Elliott, should forthwith pay to Mr. Theo. Davie $295.21, plaintiff's costs; that Mr. Davie should undertake to repay the same if ordered, and that the said defendants should give security for $2,000, the damages recovered against them, and $200 to meet the costs of appeal, in case they should be ordered to pay the same. The costs, ($295.21,) were paid on the 14th October, 1886.

On the 19th October, 1886, a secret arrangement was made between Mr. T. Davie, Achille Bossi, Felix Bossi and Mr. S. Perry Mills, representing the latter, under which $500 was paid to Wise, and a bond for $1,559 given to him by the Bossis; equalling together the $2,000 verdict with $50 additional costs. On the 21st October, in pursuance of the Chief Justice's order, a bond for $2,200 was given to Wise by Tuttle and Messrs. Loewen & Erb, who were kept in ignorance of the arrangement made with the Bossis. In January, 1887, Mr. Richards, Q. C., moved in the Full Court, (Crease, McCreight and Walkem, Justices,) on behalf of Tuttle, Felix Bossi, Revesbech and Elliott, for a new trial; and, on the 11th January, a new trial was ordered as to those defendants, on the ground that the Chief Justice, at the trial, had incorrectly ruled that the memorial to the Lieutenant-Governor was not a communication of qualified privilege. On the 17th January application was made, on behalf of Wise, to vary the order for a new trial, but the application was dismissed. On the same day an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against the order for a new trial was commenced on behalf of Wise. In April, 1887, the appeal was abandoned. The arrangement made by Messrs. Davie, Mills and the Bossi was kept private until 21st April, 1887, when Mr. Mills informed Mr. Hett that Mr. Felix Bossi had settled the action. On the 27th of April, Mr. Justice Walkem made an order amending the pleadings. On the 29th April the plaintiff appealed against the order before a Divisional Court. The Divisional Court, (McCreight and Crease, Justices,) affirmed Mr. Justice Walkem's order generally, but struck out a plea of the judgment recovered against Irwin, because it had not been pleaded within eight days after the order for a new trial.

The new trial took place at Victoria, on 2nd and 3rd May, instant, before Mr. Justice Walkem, and a special jury. Mr. T. Davie was counsel for Wise; Mr. Richards, Q. C., and Mr. Hett, for Tuttle and Elliott; Mr. Mills for Felix Bossi, and Mr. Walls for Revesbech. In the course of the trial the learned judge, being of opinion that Wise had, in October, 1886, released Felix Bossi upon the request of Mr. T. Davie, struck the name of Felix Bossi out of the proceedings, leaving Tuttle, Elliott and Revesbech as defendants. The jury returned the following verdict: (1) That a libel was published; (2) Was malicious; (3) Damages for plaintiff, $500; (4) That they did not think the payment of $500 by Bossi was intended to relieve any other defendants.

Mr. Richards submitted that Wise, having released Felix Bossi, the other defendants, being joint tort feasors, or wrong doers, were thereby discharged, by operation of law, quoting in support of the position Thurman vs. Wild, 11, Adolphus & Ellis, p. 453; Skinner's Reports, p. 391.

Mr. Justice Walkem considered that the release of Felix Bossi was not a discharge of the other defendants.

Mr. Hett contended that a judgment for $2000, and costs, stood recorded against Irwin, in respect of the publication of the memorial, no damages could be recovered against the other defendants, his co-tort feasors, and that the court could take notice of the judgment recorded in the action, although not specially pleaded.

Mr. Justice Walkem directed that the plaintiff should move for judgment on Thursday, 5th May, instant, when that question, the matter of costs, and the delivery up of Messrs. Loewen & Erb's bond could be considered.

Mr. T. Davie moved for judgment on 5th May; Mr. Hett and Mr. Walls, opposed, arguing that Wise having already a judgment for $2,000 against Irwin, in respect to the libel complained of, could not recover damages against any others who had published the libel jointly with him; the rule of law being that for one wrong damages may be recovered once only; and that the receipt of $500 from Felix Bossi, irrespective of the judgment, was a complete discharge of the whole cause of action.

Mr. T. Davie quoted in support of the position that separate judgments can be obtained against joint libellers, Purnell v. Great Western Railway Co., 1. Q. B. D. page 636; Fresco v. May; 2, Foster & Finlayson and Odger on libel.

Mr. Hett quoted King v. Hoare, 13 M. & W. 494; Wallace v. Kennell, 7 M. & W. 264; Bird v. Randall, 3 Burrows, 1345; Kendall v. Hamilton, C. P. D., 403, and 4 appeal cases. Brinsmead v. Harrison, 7 C. P., 547; Buckland v. Johnson, 23. L. J. C. P., 204; Supreme Court Canada reports, vol. 10; Addison on Torts.

Judgment was reserved.

COWICHAN ELECTION.

The Government Candidate Completely Snowed Under.

Mr. Fry the Successful Candidate—The Vote Polled.

The ballots recorded in the Cowichan district were counted this morning by Returning Officer Mr. Wilbar, at Somenos. It was found that the vote stood thus:

Fry	98
Sutton	83
Evans	74

Mr. Sutton was the straight government candidate. The faithful had been urged by the Colonist to rally round Mr. Sutton. The electors were implored not to prove themselves recreant to the memory of the late Premier, whom the oracle claimed had done so much for the district which he had represented so long and so faithfully. Mr. Fry was charged with being an out and out Oppositionist. He was characterized as an ingrate. Many other opprobrious names were applied to him. The Hon. John Robson—the missionary of the ministerial party—visited the district and implored the electors to record their ballots for the government protege—Mr. Sutton. However, the free and independent paid but little heed to the hon. gentleman's admonitions, for out of the 255 votes polled the beggarly number of 83 only were recorded for the government candidate, as against 172 polled for the opposition. THE TIMES espoused the cause of Mr. Evans, as we believed him in every way a worthy man for the position. The result is a disappointing one to the government and its claquers. They had built great expectations on the result in Cowichan, where it was claimed their candidate would have an easy walk over. The electors evidently did not forget the insult offered them by the government in connection with the Municipalities Act and the granting of liquor licenses in defiance of the wishes of the people most interested, or the local licensing board. It is another proof that the people will not allow their interests to be trifled with with impunity. Mr. Fry is an old and a highly esteemed resident in the district, and no doubt will prove himself to be an efficient representative.

A Big Case Decided.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer of the 6th inst., says that off and on for the past three or four weeks Chief Justice Jones has been listening to the arguments pro and con in the case of the ship John Rosenfeld vs. the tug Tacoma. It will be remembered that some months ago, while the tug was towing the ship from Nanaimo to the sea, she towed her onto a rock into the Gulf of Georgia, where she still remains. The ship was a new and fine vessel valued at $75,000, and the property of John Rosenfeld and others of San Francisco. The owners of the ship claimed that the accident was due to the carelessness and negligence of the officers of the tug, and commenced action against the owners of the tug to recover damages. Under the law, the damages recoverable cannot exceed the appraised valuation of the tug. Yesterday afternoon Chief Justice Jones announced his decision. He gave the owners of the ship a verdict for $12,000 and costs, which will amount to a very large sum, probably $8000 or $10,000. In his findings the Chief Justice threw all the blame for the accident on the tug, the pilot, and the captain of the tug, for stranding the ship, but at the same time criticised the master of the Rosenfeld for quitting the vessel and abandoning her without taking the proper steps to get her off the rocks. The case will probably be appealed to the Supreme Court of Washington Territory, and probably to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Discriminating in Freight Rates.

At a recent interview held in Ottawa between Messrs. Van Horne and Olds, of the C. P. R., and the representatives of the Northwest and this province, the question of freight rates was very thoroughly discussed. Mr. Van Horne claimed that no injustice had been done Manitoba, but he stated that in British Columbia the rates had been high. He expected that when the new tariff sheet was issued there would be a considerable reduction in the existing rates. He also estimated that passenger rates in the mountains would be reduced to a uniform rate of 5c. per mile. The freight rate charged between Vancouver and Ashcroft, for instance, is as follows (The top figures denote the classification):

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
160, 134, 108, 80, 72, 60, 44, 48, 60, 37.

The distance in milage is 197. To Kamloops, a distance of 242 miles, the rates are:

184, 154, 122, 92, 82, 69, 50, 53, 69, 41.

To Revelstoke, a distance of 371 miles, a rate is quoted of:

286, 198, 160, 220, 108, 90, 64, 66, 90, 53.

And to Donald, 450 miles:

266, 222, 178, 134, 120, 102, 72, 72, 102, 59.

The Winnipeg rate, a distance of 1,472 miles, is:

537, 449, 359, 270, 243, 206, 143, 135, 206, 121.

The distance to Port Arthur from Vancouver is 1,902 miles, and the rates given are 592, 493, 394, 296, 266, 235, 164, 149, 235, 138. [The figures in each case range according to the classification.] Local shippers here are puzzled to understand how it comes that freight can be taken from San Francisco to Port Moody and hauled thence close upon 1,800 miles to Minneapolis at a rate ranging from 60 to 70c. per 100 pounds. The rate to shippers in this city to Winnipeg alone on the same description being $2.43 and $3.59 respectively. We are aware that terminal points have a great advantage over inland points and places where no competition exists, but the difference between the rates quoted is so great that one is forced to the conclusion that unfair discrimination does exist. The local rates to points not quoted by us between Vancouver and Donald are considered as out of all proportion. A change in these rates in the interest of the road, and for the country's prosperity, is desirable, and no doubt will be granted by the company.

The C. P. R. in 'Frisco.

San Francisco Post: The action of the Canadian Pacific Railroad in issuing a general tariff at rates greatly below those adopted by the American roads, to go into effect on the 5th of May, was no surprise to the domestic companies. The latter cannot meet the new schedule, since they have based all their arguments in favor of a suspension of the long and short haul clause of the Inter-State law. The advantage of the Canadian Pacific is palpable. The long and short haul clause of the law does not affect them, because their local business is all without the jurisdiction of the Inter-State Commission. The principal competitor the Canadian Pacific will have to deal with is the Pacific Mail. In some instances the new rail rates are lower than those offered by the steamship company. Take wool, for example. The Pacific Mail has made a rate of $1.50 on that commodity to New York, but the Canadian Pacific comes along and offers to carry wool to Boston for the same figure. Boston is the great wool market, and the water line must either come down on its tariff materially or yield to its rival the profitable wool business. As to time between San Francisco and New York the Canadian Pacific has not much advantage over the water route. Freight shipped by water to Port Moody and thence by rail will reach New York in twenty-two days, or only five days less than the time by Pacific Mail. It is the opinion of railroad people that the water route will make rates so low that the saving of five days's time in transit will be no item to shippers. Freight traffic between here and Chicago will be completely at the mercy of the Canadian Pacific. A heroic remedy would be to meet the Canadian Pacific rates and thus throw upon the commission the responsibility of saying whether its members will be willing to so interpret an American law as to throw all the business into the hands of a foreign rival.

Watch him Squirm.

It will be amusing to watch the Colonist squirm out of the position it has taken on the Cowichan contest. The chameleon cannot change its color any faster than the organ can change its views, when circumstances demand it. Mr. Fry, the M. P. P., will very probably be treated with more respect than Mr. Fry the candidate, who was spoken of as a "traitor," a "friend in disguise," &c. It will be remembered now by the organ that Mr. Fry announced himself a supporter of the Government, and his record as a consistent friend of the powers that be will be pointed to as a sure indication of the course he will pursue in the House. Its impolitic abuse will be conveniently forgotten, and nothing will be said of Hon. John Robson's missionary efforts in the district on behalf of Mr. Sutton. The organ will squirm and wriggle as it has often squirmed and wriggled before, but it will not blind the people to the fact that its influence in Cowichan has forever departed. Its opposition to Messrs. Gordon and Fry was one of the principal factors that secured the election of both gentlemen. As an enemy the Colonist is an invaluable friend.

The Behring Sea Fisheries.

A San Francisco dispatch states that Messrs. L. N. Handy & Co., owners of the schooner San Diego, which was seized in Behring sea last year, have received from Washington a copy of the brief filed with President Cleveland by their attorney, Mr. Evans, and also a letter from Mr. Evans, in which he states that the British vessels which were seized about the same time have been released as a result of diplomatic correspondence.

From Washington it is reported that a Mr. Evans, of San Francisco is in that city on important business on behalf of several vessel owners and merchants of the Pacific coast interested in seal fisheries. He contends that the policy pursued to the close of the last fishing season, and the recent action at Washington, have resulted in giving the seal-hunting industry of British Columbia a decided advantage over that of our Pacific Coast, and advocates reservation of the seal islands for breeding purposes exclusively, leaving all seal catching to be carried on in open waters sufficiently remote from the St. Paul and St. George islands, and under the proper supervision to prevent the destruction or deterioration of the fishery.

It is believed the budget speech will be delivered early next week.

NANAIMO'S HORROR.

Latest from the Scene of Tuesday's Appalling Calamity.

What was Done To-day—Additional Bodies Recovered.

ADDITIONAL BODIES RECOVERED.

NANAIMO, May 7.—The additional bodies recovered up to 9 p. m., yesterday were John Woobank, Copely Woobank and three Chinamen from No. 3 level, and John Meakin, sr., and Joseph Forest from No. 1. Exploring under Messrs. Bryden, Scott, McGregor, Randle and Little commenced at 6 a. m., to-day without any result. The afterdamp is too strong. Working and exploring parties of 30 men, under Scott and McGregor went down again at 11 a. m. Bratticing has been commenced, but is without the risk of a further explosion. The fire-engine is doing good work. The fire is likely to be thoroughly extinguished shortly. Very bad weather; rain is falling in torrents and high winds prevail.

NO MORE BODIES FOUND.

NANAIMO, May 7, 1 p. m.—A party, including Messrs. Prior and Bryden, which went down at six this morning to explore No. 1 Level, came up before noon and reported that no more bodies had been found. On account of the after damp they were unable to penetrate further into the mine than the party which went down yesterday. While down the after damp backed up towards the shaft and its effects were felt rather severely before they got out.

NO MORE RISKS.

It has been decided to take no further risks and no more explorations will be made till the fire has been put out.

THE FIRE GOING DOWN.

The fire appears to be going down, but is still burning and the air pit mouth smoking.

After this it will be necessary, on account of decomposition, to place the bodies in coffins before bringing them to the surface.

SEVERELY CENSURED.

To-day's Free Press and a correspondent severely condemn the Colonist's reference to the alleged brutality shown in handling dead bodies.

BODIES RECOVERED.

Thirty-six bodies of white miners have so far been recovered and 14 of Chinamen. There still remains in the different shafts the bodies of over sixty white men and boys and about an equal number of Chinese. The total number of those who lost their lives by the catastrophe will be in the neighborhood of 175 to 180. It will be some time before all are recovered.

Amongst the lost is Mr. S. H. Meyers, who was the Labor candidate at the general election last July.

SYMPATHETIC EXPRESSIONS.

In response to the cablegram to London, Mr. Robins received from the directors a dispatch sympathizing with him, the bereaved and the distressed, and urging him to render every assistance in his power.

The generous action of the Victoria Council in voting so promptly the sum of $1000 in aid of the sufferers is favorably commented upon. The action, however, is but in keeping with the fame of the Queen City for the large hearted generosity of her people.

Mr. Richard Alexander, manager of the Hastings Saw Mill Company, wired Mayor Gibson that $250 had been deposited to his credit. A message was also received from John Rosenfeld & Son, of San Francisco, subscribing, by telegraph, the sum of $1000. Other places in the province, New Westminster, Vancouver and the government, are yet to be heard from. The condition of many of the bereaved widows and orphans is such as demands the heartfelt sympathy of all. One touch of grief makes human nature akin is to-day as applicable to this city as it was to Vancouver last year; to Chicago in 1871; to St. John, N.B., in 1872; to Hull, Que., and many other places within our own borders. Sympathy is well enough in its place, but it does not go far enough; it does not feed the hungry nor clothe the naked. The calamity is undoubtedly the most serious and far reaching that has ever occurred on the continent, and rarely has it been equalled in the magnitude of its appalling consequences beyond the Atlantic.

DRESSING THE BODIES.

Each body as it was recovered was conveyed to the cage, where it was enveloped in canvass and brought to the surface. On reaching the mouth of the shaft a white sheet is carefully placed over the mangled form which is then laid on a stretcher and conveyed to an adjacent workshop, where the name, age and other particulars are entered in a register. The body is then taken to the old school house, where it is stripped, washed and properly laid out, when it is ready to be claimed by relatives.

COMING HOME TO ROOST.

Mr. Fry, M. P. P., Opposition Member for Cowichan.

Mr. Fry, as stated elsewhere, has been elected for Cowichan. In respect to his attitude towards the government, we quote the Colonist:

"The fact that Mr. Fry and Mr. Evans are born companions of the opposition organ in this city, and are treated in its columns to unstinted praise, ought to be sufficient evidence to the electors of Cowichan district that those two gentlemen are rowing in the same boat and that their only object is to defeat the government candidate."—Colonist, April 21st.

"We are prepared to state that Mr. Fry is not and has never been loyal to the party now in power. Nay, there need be no hesitation in asserting that he is sailing under false colors, that he is an enemy in disguise. * * * That he is so regarded by the government is well known, the present Premier having repeatedly stated that he would rather see Mr. Evans elected than Mr. Fry."—Colonist, April 29.

"It has been publicly stated through the press that Mr. Fry is not the government's choice, and they do not recognize in him a friend. * * * If the electors of Cowichan desire to express their confidence in the present, and also record their approval of the two governments, they can only do so by returning Mr. Sutton."—Colonist, May 3.

NOVA SCOTIA'S LIQUOR LAW.

During the present session of the Nova Scotia Legislature one of the most stringent restrictive liquor selling measures ever passed was put into active operation. In the Atlantic seaboard province there are three kinds of licenses: Hotel, shop, and wholesale, the fees being respectively $150, $100 and $300. The inspector of licenses must be a member in good standing in some recognized temperance society within the municipality; bar-room drinking is prohibited; guests at hotels must have their liquor sent to their rooms. Holders of shop licenses cannot sell in less quantities than a pint, which must not be consumed upon the premises. Wholesale dealers are restricted to quantities of a dozen quart bottles or a cask. In the city of Halifax three fifths of the ratepayers in the district must petition before a license is granted, and outside Halifax two-thirds of the ratepayers must sign.

The foregoing is a fair resume of the act. In many instances the results following the enforcement of the act were curious. The old habitues of the hotels and saloons found their occupation gone; if they desired a drink they had to quench their thirst on the side walk or carry it to their homes. For a time a powerful effort was made to bring the new law into disfavor by getting customers to drink on the street, but this pleasantry on the part of the liquor sellers would appear to have been abandoned after a short and unsatisfactory trial. A man usually manages to make an ass of himself one or twice in a lifetime, but to do it systematically and persistently, with the public eye upon him, taxes the nerve even of a Haligonian. Undoubtedly the new law will reduce the profits of the license holders very considerably, if it does not ruin some of them; but the Nova Scotians know local requirements and possibilities better than the people of other provinces can tell them, and so may be left to work out their experience of curtailing the liquor traffic in their own way. What will appear most prominent to outsiders in the new act is that it is designed to put down the evils of continued bar-room drinking, treating and loafing, customs which good citizens have everywhere decided to be senseless, injurious to the community, and contrary to all maxims of health and good principles. The abuse of liquor would in any case, it is much to be feared, exist more or less to a deplorable extent so long as the business is protected by the law and encouraged by custom. Good influences in the case of those who were weak, parental authority in the case of the young, had no chance against such a system. So the Nova Scotians viewed the matter, and they have found what they believe to be a remedy. The experiment is on its trial and will be watched throughout the country with interest and with sympathy.

A MUCH NEEDED REFORM.

Public dinners as a general rule are important affairs; but Canadians, and especially British Columbians, do not attach as much importance to them as do the British people. It is felt, however, that in all well regulated societies an annual dinner is a necessity, for men who eat and drink together and exchange sentiments and ideas must be drawn towards each other. Tam O'Shanter never would, nay could not possibly adore any other man as he loved Souter Johnny, the man after his own heart with whom he had "been fou for weeks thegether." Members of new charitable and national societies are moved to new efforts; to feed the hungry after they have fed themselves in each others company. And so the public dinner has come to be what our American cousins call an "institution" in Canada. It is a good one, and it is to be hoped that it will be permanent. But it needs reform. It begins too late; and, what is worse, it ends too late. They do these things better at home. There the dinner is a dinner. The man who goes calculates on sitting down at about the hour he would sit down at his own table. Here the wise man takes dinner at home, for he calculates that the public dinner will not begin before 9 o'clock. Then the speech-making lasts too long. The festivity is seldom ended earlier than 2 o'clock in the morning; and 3 is not an uncommon hour. This is all wrong. Everybody goes home weary and sleepy. The dinner is felt not to have been a season of rational enjoyment, but a severe task. If the dinner were began promptly at 7 o'clock, the cloth could be removed at 8; then with an energetic man in the chair, the speeches could be condensed into three hours, and guests could start for their homes at 11. If that reform could be introduced, many who now never attend public dinners, except from a sense of duty, and then unwillingly, would go with pleasure and retire satisfied and thankful.

MARRIAGES IN BRITAIN.

The question of marriage with a deceased wife's sister, as THE TIMES' readers are well aware, has been a burning problem for many years, both in the parent country and her Colonies. In Canada it has been discussed in the courts of the various denominational chambers, as well as in Parliament. The advocates who insist upon legalizing such marriages and its offspring are encouraged to persevere in their work, as the people are evidently beginning to arrive at a fuller and a fairer appreciation of the vexed, question. In Britain repeatedly, bills legalizing such marriages have passed the House of Commons; but they have invariably suffered defeat in the House of Lords. It appears, however, that the people of Canada are more nearly touched by the existing law than has heretofore been supposed. The London Daily News of the 14th April says that persons marrying in Canada sisters of their deceased wives will find themselves in a very unpleasant predicament if they visit England. It adds:

The most serious aspect of the case, however, and that which constitutes the grievance to be submitted to-day, is that marriages of this kind, which have been distinctly sanctioned in various colonies by the sovereign and her ministers are nevertheless not recognized in England. There are dicta of the late Earl Cairns and others implying the contrary; but these are only expressions of individual opinion, and as a matter of experience persons lawfully married in the colonies under Imperial sanction are on coming to England treated as though no marriage at all had taken place. The lord chamberlain refuses them presentation to the Queen; they are liable to be charged 10 per cent. legacy duty instead of one; the church denies them communion as living in incest; and their children cannot inherit real estate. Several colonial parliaments have even taken the view that the return to England dissolves the marriage, and have in that belief specially memorialized the Queen for an amendment of the law. In its present state it cannot but be a prolific source of serious wrong. The grievance is a practical one, the removal of which is easy, and ought to be considered imperative.

On the other hand it is asserted that the marriages referred to are practically valid throughout the British empire, except in the mother country itself. It is not at all improbable that persons contracting such marriages may go to England, and there find themselves under all the disabilities suffered by those who violate the law at home. No doubt exists that the people of Great Britain and Ireland desire a change in the law; and it is earnestly to be hoped that the Lords will see their way to accept and approve the popular verdict.

TEN thousand persons landed one day last week at New York. Canadian officials say a fair proportion are coming to Canada.

ANDREW CARNEGIE'S furnaces at Pittsburg are said to make as much iron per year as was made in the entire country in 1861. Pittsburg claims to have the largest steel-melting establishment in the world. The city melts 360 tons per day.

WINNIPEG grocers are said to be clamoring for protection from the hawkers and pedlers, and suggest that an annual license fee of $100 be imposed upon every pedler for each double team employed, $75 for each single outfit, $50 for each hand conveyance, and $40 for each basket or pack.

FARMING in Oregon has its drawbacks. The Heppner, Oregon Gazette, tells of high winds that removed every vestige of soil, blew it away "as deep as the ground was plowed." This sort of activity in real estate must have a discouraging effect on the farmer who believes in deep plowing.

A LIFE size statue of Prince Albert has been the most prominent object in the private grounds of Balmoral Castle for many years past. It is now to have a companion in the shape of a similar statue of the Queen, which is to be presented to Her Majesty as a jubilee memorial by the tenants on the Balmoral, Abergeldie and Birkhall estates.

THE New York Sun asks: "Which of the great political parties is going to be the first to make the peaceable acquisition of Canada a plank in its platform?" Would not a more pertinent question be: Which of the great political parties of the United States will be the first to treat grave international questions with a sense of dignity and honor?

THE Ontario Legislature has removed the English sparrow from the list of insectivorous birds that must not be killed. It is now everybody's legal privilege to murder the English sparrow, and the more of them that are slain the better it will be for the country. It is but a few years since these creatures were imported into Canada, but they have multiplied so rapidly that they are now a perfect pest.

THE report of the board of examiners of the civil service shows that the candidates for the preliminary examination number 243 and 260 for the qualifying examination. The number of candidates who came up to the entrance examination was 553. Those who came up for optional subjects were 171. Of the 110 candidates 17 gained each one option, and nine two each; in all 35. The others failed to make 50 marks, which is the minimum in options. The principles upon which promotions are made are, that the persons entitled to promotion shall be advanced from the class to which they belong to the class next above, and in the departments in which they are serving, the examinations to be governed by a graduated scale, as under viz:—Third class candidates (aspiring to second class offices) to make not less than thirty marks, (the minimum) in any subject, and an average of 50 per cent, upon the group. Second class men, forth minimum and sixty average. First class, fifty minimum and seventy average. Under these rules, eighty three clerks of the third class, and ten of the first class, passed a successful examination, and so became eligible for promotion.

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

The Amending Act Recently Passed in the Ontario Legislature.

Yielding to the representations made by the press of that province of all shades of politics as well as public opinion, during the last week of the session the Ontario Legislature passed an act to amend the law of libel of which the following is the full text:

1. Section 4 of chapter 56 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario is hereby amended by adding thereto the following subsection.

2. No such action shall lie unless and until the plaintiff has given to the defendant notice in writing, specifying the statements complained of, such notice to be served in the same manner as a plaintiff's statement of claim is served, or delivering the notice to some grown-up person at the place of business of the defendant. The plaintiff shall recover actual damages only, if it appears on the trial of the action that the article was published in good faith, and that there was reasonable ground to believe that the same was for the public benefit, and if it did not involve a criminal charge, and if it appears that the publication took place in mistake or misapprehension of the facts, and that a full and fair retraction of any statement therein alleged to be erroneous was published either in the next regular issue of the newspaper or other periodical publication aforesaid, or in any regular issue thereof published within three days after the receipt of such notice, and was so published in as conspicuous a place and type as was the article complained of.

(a) Provided, however, that the provisions of this Act shall not apply to the case of any libel against any candidate for a public office in this province, unless the retraction of the charge is made editorially in a conspicuous manner, at least five days before the election.

3. The words "a public meeting" in section 3 of the Newspaper Libel Act, 1882, shall extend to any lawful meeting to which the public are invited, and of which announcement has been made by printed or written notice thereof being posted up in at least six conspicuous places in the municipality where the meeting is held, or by advertisement in a public newspaper published in such municipality, or if there be none published therein then in the one published nearest to the place of meeting.

3. All reports of proceedings in any court of justice, published in any public newspaper or other periodical publication, shall be privileged, provided that they are fair and authentic, and without comments, unless the defendant has refused or neglected to insert in the newspaper in which the report complained of appeared a reasonable letter or statement of explanation or contradiction, by or on behalf of such plaintiff.

4. In any action brought for libel contained in any public newspaper or periodical publication, the defendant may, at any time after the filing of the statement of claim, apply to the court or a judge for security for costs, upon notice and an affidavit by the defendant or his agent, showing the nature of the action and of the defence, and showing that the plaintiff is not possessed of property sufficient to answer the costs of an action in case a verdict or judgment be given in favor of the defendant and that the defendant has a good defence upon the merits, and that the statements complained of were published in good faith, or that the grounds of action are trivial or frivolous, the court or judge in his or their discretion, may make an order that the plaintiff shall give security for the costs to be incurred in such action, and the security so ordered shall be given in accordance with the practice in cases where a plaintiff resides out of the province, and such order shall be a stay of proceedings in the action until the proper security is given as aforesaid.

(a) But where the alleged libel involves a criminal charge the defendant shall not be entitled to security for costs under this act, unless he satisfies the court or judge that the action is trivial or frivolous, or that the several circumstances which under said sub-section 2 of section 4 of said chapted 56 of the Revised Statutes entitle the defendant at the trial to have the damages restricted to actual damages, appear to exist, except the circumstances that the article complained of involves a criminal charge.

(b) For the purposes of this section the plaintiff or the defendant, or their agents, may be examined upon oath at any time after the statement of claim has been filed.

5. Every action for libel contained in any public newspaper or other periodical publication, shall be tried in the county where the chief office of such newspaper or periodical is, or in the county wherein the plaintiff resides at the time the action is brought; but upon the application of either party the Court or a Judge may direct the issues to be tried or the damages to be assessed in any other county, if it be made to appear in the interests of justice, or that it will promote a fair trial, and may impose such terms as to payment of witness fees, and otherwise as may seem proper.

6. This Act shall not apply to pending suits.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION.

Typewriting and the Telegraph Eclipsed--Patient Labor Rewarded.

After five years of patient labor and research says a Philadelphia dispatch, Mr. James F. McLaughlin, a young electrician of this city, has succeeded in perfecting a machine which promises to be the most formidable rival of the Bell Telephone Company as well as of the entire system of modern telegraphy. Not long after the invention of the mechanical typewriter Mr. McLaughlin became convinced that it would be a possible thing to have an electrical connection between two typewriting machines in two different cities. On this line of thought he went to work. In the latter part of 1885 he had reached a point where there seemed to be only one more obstacle to overcome. He had built a new typewriter, different from those in use, and had successfully made the electrical connection. He could not, however, dissociate altogether the principle of the Remington or Caligraph writer from that of his own, and the battery would not successfully operate a machine with a "type arm," which was thrown against the paper by an unyielding bar. One day last June the idea came to him that a chain instead of a stiff bar would give the play required. From that day it was simply a question of perfecting details. The machine as it stands now, is not unlike the ordinary type-writer, except the roller on which the paper is carried. This moves automatically, and when the end of a line is reached it flies back and turns a notch, ready to begin anew. The key board differs slightly from that of

THE MECHANICAL TYPEWRITER.

The alphabet is in two rows and on ivory squares. Each key is worked from an independent armature, so that the operator may strike the key board with great force, or touch it ever so lightly, the impression on the paper is precisely similar in each case. An ordinary battery, such as is used on a Morse wire, supplies the electrical energy. The utility of young McLaughlin's invention lies in the fact that each message sent is duplicated in the office of the sender; that the same message can be sent to a dozen or a score of places at the same time; that absolute secrecy is secured, and that when not in use electrically, the wire can be disconnected and the machine used mechanically as long as desired.

A SKILLED OPERATOR

is not required. Any person of ordinary intelligence, and a pair of hands, can send a message. It is impossible to successfully "tap" a wire, because, even if the wire were cut between two points, nothing would be received but a single nonmeaning click for each time the key board was depressed. On the score of rapidity it beats the ordinary telegraphic message out of sight. An ordinarily rapid operator in a telegraph office can "receive" on an average at the rate of thirty words per minute. An ordinarily rapid girl, accustomed to a type-writing machine, can write on an average sixty to sixty-five words a minute, and if she makes an error of substance or of construction or in spelling it is recorded. It is not even necessary that the person for whom the message is intended should be present while it is coming over the wire, as the machine used as a receiver works automatically, and when the paper runs out notifies the sender by ringing a bell to cease operations.

TO MOTHER.

In my heart a tender song
Has been sounding very long,
For its tones so wondrous sweet
Were the first my ears to greet,
And shall be the last to roll
Over my departing soul;
It was heard in hours of pain
Borne in patience for my sake;
It was sung to hush my cries,
It was shown in loving eyes,
It was taught my lips of tongue,
And I would it might be sung
Sweet as angel's song above—
The pure song of mother's love!

Mother's love! O, who shall measure
All the meanings this may treasure!
Weary years of toil and sorrow,
Hopes the sinking heart would borrow,
Prayers that rise through seas of tears,
Fond devotion fringed with fears,
Self-denial, asking none,
Faith whose course is never run—
Mother's love, it never quails,
Till at last the great soul fails,
And the trembling hands are dropped,
And the dauntless heart is stopped!
Then in vain regret we pine
For that mother's love divine.

O my mother, now to you
May my gratitude be true,
Summer has been full of storm,
Winter now enfolds your form,
And your head begins to show
Traces of the falling snow,
Yet would I each care erase
From that dear familiar face,
Bring robe eyes the happy glow
Of your childhood long ago,
Be one child who did not wait
To return before too late
Mother's love, Kiss, and caress,
All her latest days to bless.

Richard Lee Dawson, in Current.

THE RISE OF THE NILE.

Viewed by the Natives with Great Veneration.

The Night of the "Drop"—Measurement of the "Sacred Waters"—A "Note" to the Nile—A Grand Spectacular.

The Saracens thoroughly subjugated the Egyptians, and treated them with more mildness than often falls to the portion of the vanquished. It is said the conquerors overran the domains of science as quickly as they overcame the kingdoms of their neighbors, and two centuries after the conquest, the son of Haroun al Raschid found, in the Valley of the Nile, the rich fruit of a scientific life. The Arabs dismantled Alexandria and Memphis, but they built observatories, and, profiting by the astrology of the Egyptians, studied the stars, and gave them names familiar now to every school-boy. And when the Caliph in 801 sent to Charlemange, from Bagdad, the keys of our Saviour's sepulcher, as a pledge of esteem from the commander of the faithful to the greatest of Christian kings, it was the mingling of sound policy and delicate compliment, which yet marks the crafty and courteous Arab.

The invading army found ruins so extensive and colossal, that the Arabic historian concludes the ancient Egyptians were long-lived giants, who were able to move tremendous blocks of stone by the use of magic wands.

In the year 638 Memphis was a dead city, infested by robbers, employed by commercial companies, who searched the fallen temples and sepulchers for hidden treasures. The great underground vaults, many miles long, escaped destruction, but the movable blocks of marble, the white walls of the fort, the granite temples of the gods, were quarries for the builders of the city, not named Cairo till two hundred years after its foundations were laid. And thus vanished Heliopolis, on the bank of the river opposite the new capital. The stones were easily transported when the Nile was in overflow, and the work was done rapidly and more carelessly than is usual with Arabic artisans.

As I said, the pyramids have been quarries, and have not been blown in air only because danger to Cairo was apprehended from so great an explosion.

The face of the sphinx has been a target for Mamelukes through centuries. They hurl their spears and level their guns at "the idol" with infinite zest and vigor. Still do these remains of the Pharoahs survive, but it is only because the worshipers of the one God revealed by Mahomet had not the power or machinery to lay them low. Iconoclasm should have its limit, and the later Christian learns that even idols may have their uses. At their feet and on their breasts are traced hieroglyphs invaluable and irreplaceable if lost.

Far up the Nile, near the last rapid, is a curious pagan temple containing stone tablets with the commandments of Kings, and the words of hymns sung to the Nile on festival nights when the overflow commences. A massive stone table of black granite has recently been discovered, worked into the foundation of a house of Cairo. It is the record uninjured of a mass devoted to the honor of Ptolemy Soter, and in the mosque of Amrou, most ancient of Egypt, are numerous pillars, supports of capitals in Greek, Roman and Byzantine workmanship. No visitor can fail to notice the vast number of columns from old heathen temples employed in the construction of Moslem sanctuaries. The conquerors loved Cairo always, and lavished untold sums on it, besides the rich plunder afforded by the neighboring cities.

Aniron in his dispatches described the Nile Valley as first a desert, then a sweet water lake, then a blooming garden; the three gradations given the country by the river, without which there is no life.

The night of the seventeenth of June is known as the night of the drop. From the kingdom of the myths, a traditional belief comes, to our times, that during this night a mystic and magical drop from heaven falls into the Nile, and starts its rising. Anciently it was a tear of Isis, the beautiful goddess with auburnal locks, and it fell near her sacred home, the Isle of Philae. At once the sympathetic river began to swell, and Sirius looked on with a brilliance which outshone the sun, for the soul of that star was Isis.

The genius or deity of the sacred stream was Hapi Mou. He is represented as a fat man, of a blue color, with aquatic plants for hair. The god has two statues at Luxor, and was employed in binding the thrones of the Pharoahs with the lotus and papyrus of Upper Egypt. The Greeks used to say it was easier to find a god than a mask on the Nile banks, and we readily imagine Mols of the beneficent deity ever present on the shores of Father Niles. The water was so delicious, the old Sultan transported it to Constantinople. Persian Kings carried it with them for their banquets, and a Roman general rebuked his soldiers for demanding wine in its presence.

The rise begins at Syene, and in ancient days the priests, in gorgeous garments, with music and solemn incantation chanted their hymns, and speeded forward the torrent rushing toward the thirsty sands. That solemnity was the grandest event of the year, and was celebrated with incredible pomp. A lovely virgin of noble birth was crowned with garlands, and thrown into the river, the bride of the Nile, to insure a plentiful inundation and generous harvest.

The Arab conqueror abolished the heathen sacrifice, and the river did not rise for three months after the usual time of increase. The people were frightened, and Amrou wrote to Caliph Omar to tell what was done, and of the threatened calamity. Omar returned brief answers, expressing approbation of Amrou's action, and enclosing, in a letter, a note to be thrown into the Nile. It ran as follows: "From Abd-Allah, Prince of the Faithful, to the Nile of Egypt. If thou flowest of thine own accord, then cease to flow; but if it be God, the Almighty, who causeth thee to flow, then we implore God, the One, the mighty, to let thee flow."

Amrou obeyed the command of the Caliph, and lo! the river rose sixteen cubits the following night. In Cairo the breaking of the Nile is still celebrated. The dahabeeyahs are illuminced with lanterns and dressed with flags, little boats fly across the twinkling waters, and the air resounds with melancholy hymns of women in chorus of song, ending in wailings any thing but festal to our ears. In the tents on shore are dancers, musicians, reciters, laughter and feasting, vari-colored lights, and a dazzle of bright arms and costume.

At midnight the men begin to work on the dyke, and at daybreak the Khedive and attendant officials, in splendid uniforms, appear in a tent overlooking the embankment, and testify that the Nile has reached the height for bursting the dyke. The testimonial is forwarded to the Sultan. The Khedive scatters small coin in the shallow edge of the river, the poor dive for them in the mud, and evil-minded and malicious tourists say the small coin grows smaller, and fewer in number, every year.

There are misty legends that the bride of the Nile is now represented by a waxen image of a girl, blooming and decked in bridal robes; but I could find no foundation in truth for the story. Nor could I learn when and where it was the custom to seal a mummy finger in a costly casket, and fling it an offering to the god of the bursting river.

One remnant of the obsolete ceremony survives in the rigging of a large boat called Akabeh by the Arabs. It is painted in brightest colors and illumined with flaring lamps and streamers. You may leave Cairo in the afternoon on this sacred vessel, and sail to the Isle of Rhoda (or roses), and from its deck watch the night-long pageant.

In the rosy glow of morning rockets and cannon, and thunderous shouts of multitudes announce that the Nile has risen.

At Rhoda, the traveler may see the Nilometer or measurer of the overflow—a deep well connected with the river by a subterranean canal, so the height of the water in the well is precisely that of the Nile. In the center is an exceedingly slender eight-sided pillar, on which exact markings of the rise are kept. Under twenty-four feet gives a scant harvest; under eighteen feet means famine for thousands. The sixteenth cubit indicated on the Nilometer is called the "Sultan's water," the annual tax being remitted if the river falls of this height.

The visitor may go down the steps (I did not,) and read for himself the record, and find the water level. And from this exquisite isle—ah, how that beautiful sight comes back to me now!—he has the finest view of the most imposing of oriental ceremonials. A miracle play of night and day, so aflame with shifting color, and alive with movement and resonant minstrelsy, that our wildest festivals in comparison are poor, tame and dull.

No words of mine can give an idea of the Babel of language, the tumultuous rejoicing, always within the limits of decency and sobriety. Maskers in forpiless mantles glide like ghosts through the crowd, and what wild uproar when one is discovered through his disguise and struggles away again to some shadowy column, which may screen him from the searching blaze of the lanterns! A sense of the superhuman comes to the mind of one for the first time watching the swelling water, which rise silently and surely, as though predestined by fate, and without rain or storm appear impelled by some magic underswell.

Christian and Mohammedan influences, through centuries, have been unable to make the fellahs, or peasants, comprehend that the Nile is any thing but the direct gift of God. And the workers in the fields give him the glory of the indescribable green, and the mellow grain with fat ears, which repay the sower a hundredfold.

At all hours, in all times and places, there is fearless recognition of religion; a constant reference to the presence of the Omnipresent, which is admitted in our secret hearts, but named, alas, how rarely in audible petition by the common Christian!—Mrs. Susan E. Wallace, in Youth's Companion.

Spoiled His Enjoyment.

The other evening, as the audience at the California gradually awoke and began to pass out for a drink between acts, one of the noble army of unemployed actors now engaged in propping up the Kearney street cigar stores said to another with a yawn, "Well, how does this strike you, Ned?" "It reminds me of a little incident during a barn storming trip I took with the 'Strickly Business Company,'" said the other. "You see, business got so infernal bad we had to camp out up near Vacaville. One morning we missed Bishop and hunted for him everywhere. After a while we found him moping away under a tree surrounded by a flock of geese, who were hissing at him vigorously. We woke up the alleged comedian. 'Great Scott, boys!' he said, 'why didn't you let me alone. I was just dreaming that I was playing to a full house for once.'"—San Francisco Wasp.

—In the Commons debate last Friday night Sir John Macdonald read from a copy of the Victoria Times the telegraphic dispatches that appeared in its columns relative to the election returns last March. He quoted the one sent by the Hon. Edward Blake to the Liberals of this city thanking them for their congratulations.

—Last Sunday the body of a man was discovered in the Columbia river, about two and one-half miles west of Beaver station. An inquest was held by Coroner Vowell on Monday, when it was found that the remains were those of a man named Chas. Evans, who slipped off the ice on the 22nd of November last, while in the act of dipping a bucket of water from the river at Donald.

—To-morrow's train for Nanaimo will lay over at that place for three hours to give all a chance to view the scene of the disaster and likewise attend the various funerals.

—Mr. Chas. Morton, of the Morton House, Shawnigan Lake, is having an extensive addition made to his premises. A large lot of beautiful trout were brought down yesterday from the lake by parties who spent a couple of days angling. It is getting a favorite resort for anglers.

—Here is a sample of the farm produce coming to this city by the E. & N. R. R. from stations along the line. Yesterday's freight consisted of 1 box of chickens, 3 boxes of butter, 40 sacks of potatoes and 1 box of eggs.

—Mr. Albert Maynard returned from Nanaimo yesterday whither he had been for a short time taking photographs of the Vancouver Coal Mine. He also obtained four pictures of the dead miners as they lay in the old school house yesterday.

—The whistle of "down brakes" on yesterday's train from Nanaimo caused every passenger to wonder what was the matter. The train was brought to a stop on the edge of a trestle and directly in front of the engine was a heifer struggling in the trestle work. The animal managed to extricate itself in a few minutes.

—For a continuous stretch of telegraph work Mr. Jerry Callaghan of Nanaimo is entitled to more than ordinary mention. During the mine horror he worked consecutively 42 hours at the transmitter—so long and so arduously that his arm became benumbed. Mr. Wm. Christie, of this city, who relieved him, will probably arrive down to-day.

—The train to Nanaimo on Thursday morning last when just beyond McPherson's station met with a slight mishap, caused by a portion of the locomotive's workings breaking into two parts. A spare engine at Nanaimo was telegraphed for and a slow rate of speed was maintained by the slightly injured locomotive until it was met about 16 miles from Nanaimo, where the train arrived 45 minutes late.

Always Blundering.

The statement in the Colonist this morning that Hon. Mr. Robson did not arrive on the scene of the Nanaimo disaster "from an electioneering tour in Cowichan" is wilfully false. The honorable gentleman was in Cowichan, in the interest of Mr. Sutton, on Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Thursday morning proceeded on the nobler mission to Nanaimo. The fact that he came to Victoria on Wednesday evening does not affect the statement made by us. "The cod on the Colonist staff," if he persists in his silly "criticisms," will make himself the laughing stock of the city. We advise him to remove the beam from his own eye.

District Meeting.

The annual district meeting of the Methodist Church was held at New Westminster on Wednesday, Rev. C. Watson presiding. The business was of a routine character. Assurances were given of substial progress upon the various circuits and stations, and strong hopes were entertained of still greater progress in the future. Westminster reported a cheering increase of membership and of connexional funds, which elicited strong commendation and applause. Other circuits have been favored also with increased members and funds.

The Nanaimo Sufferers.

The St. George's Society, at its meeting last night, passed a resolution authorizing the Secretary to forward to Mayor Gibson a letter of condolence with the Nanaimo sufferers, and requesting Mayor Fell to open a subscription list in their behalf, to which the society would subscribe $100. This prompt action on the part of the members of St. George's is most praiseworthy.

The Concordia.

The Concordia is still in the zenith of its success. This week there are three new artists, Miss Bessie Turner, W. E. Turner and Larry O'Neil, the Irish gentleman, all stars. Miss Jennie Haywood, Miss Frankie Whitcombe and the petite Minnie Bickett are still here, and last but not least Johnnie Cain and Billy Gilbert, the funny 'uns. *

For the North.

The Barbara Boscowitz which will leave for the north at 6 this evening, has a full complement of freight and the following passengers: H. Helgesen, W. Tennyson and three Indians for Rivers Inlet; Mr. Smith for Skidegate; H. W. Tolmie for Skeena River and 56 Chinese for the various canneries.

The Place for Bargains.

J. Schl has just opened, in addition to his well assorted stock of Furniture, Carpets, Oil Cloth and Linoleum, a complete line of Crockery, Glassware, Lamps and Bar Glasses, the finest ever offered in the country, at remarkable low prices, having arrived before the advance in freight rates. *

Y. M. C. A. Services.

Several delegates who are on the way to the international convention at San Francisco will attend the young men's prayer meeting to be held in the rooms this evening. A cordial welcome is extended to all young men. Mr. Hampson will address the gospel meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m.

We Take It.

The Recent Blockades.

In referring to the recent blockades in the mountains on the line of the C. P. R. the Calgary Tribune on the 2nd states that recently the company discharged a large number of men, who had been working there all spring, leaving only six men on each section, or one man for every mile of road, and although there are three hundred discharged men at Donald, awaiting the arrival of the pay car, there were only very few men employed clearing the track. These men worked very hard and faithfully, at one time 40 hours in a stretch without sleep. The trouble occurred in the Beaver Canyon, and was caused by rain washing down the earth and stone. West of this there were a number of small slides, and at Bear Creek one fifty feet long and from four to six feet deep occurred. In one of these places a projecting stick or rock broke 47 panes of glass out of the train and tore off beading and mouldings along the whole train. As this occurred in the night, it gave the passengers considerable discomfort. With the small force of men employed, and small slides occurring very frequently, it is almost impossible for trains to be got through on time. It is said that Chinamen are to be employed on the road between Donald and the coast.

Stock-Raising Capabilities.

Following up the controversy as to the cattle-raising capabilities of the Canadian Northwest, Mr. W. A. Baillie-Grohman not unnaturally characterises the statements of Mr. Rufus Hatch, upon which we commented recently, as "extravagantly erroneous and misleading." No better refutation of them, as Mr. Baillie-Grohman remarks, could possibly be found than in the words of that well-known expert appointed by Mr. Hatch's own government at Washington—namely, Mr. E. V. Smalley, who in 1885 wrote:

> The Canadian Northwest is destined to produce a large beef surplus west of the Rocky Mountains. In the region drained by the Upper Columbia river (now known as the Kootenay district) there are extensive grass tracts unoccupied by herds. The climate is much milder than that of the country east of the Rockies, and will undoubtedly afford a profitable field for stock raisers when the completion of the Canadian Pacific gives a direct outlet to markets.

Do not let it be forgotten, too, that over 300,000 head of cattle were last year driven from Wyoming and Montana through this "home of the polar bear" by the 'cute countrymen of Mr. Hatch himself.

Northwest Missions.

A correspondent writes: On the 20th ult. the ministers and proliationers of the Port Simpson district of the Methodist church, met at Port Simpson. The various missions were reported in a prosperous condition, the increase in membership being over 100. The subscriptions to the missionary society show an advance on last year of over 35 per cent., at one mission of 100 per cent. over last year. During the year a church has been erected at Gold Harbor, Queen Charlotte Islands, and a school house at Kit-za-Yuela. A band of musical instruments was procured for the Greenville mission, Naas river. There is also in course of erection a fine church at Greenville. It is hoped a new church will be begun in the coming conference year at Port Essington. At Port Simpson there is a home for girls, where 20 are trained, and a boys' orphanage on the Naas. In both of these houses the inmates are clothed and fed without any support from the government. The Glad Tidings is still doing good work, having traveled over 9000 miles during the year. *

A Sham Fight.

A deputation of the Jubilee committee —composed of Mayor Fell, Col. Holmes and Messrs. C. E. Pooley and J. J. Austin—waited upon Admiral Sir Culme-Seymour this forenoon on the flagship Triumph, in respect to the part to be taken in the celebration by the officers and men of the navy. The Admiral received the deputation with the greatest cordiality, and stated he would be happy to meet the wishes of the committee in every way in his power. He proposed to land a large force of men at Beacon Hill in two parties from the four ships of war now in port, when a sham fight would take place. This will be the programme for the first day, and the blue jackets will be relieved from duty on the second, in order that they may take part in the regatta and sports. The sham fight will be a splendid sight, and we feel sure that the Admiral could not have better met the wishes of our citizens.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottle 10c. Try it. *

Wrong as Usual.

The dizzy editor of the organ of four virtues—brag, swagger, mendacity and inflation—last Sunday informed the public that the case of A. P. Clark, for alleged forgery, was remanded till Saturday, May 5th. May 6th was Friday, and the case will not come up till Monday next. So the "big head" is incorrect in both cases. And only think of it—the Colonist, with its loud brayings, which itself only considers "reliable," would deceive those spectators interested in the forgery case into wending their way in to-day's terrific windstorm to the Supreme Court, only to be disappointed for their trouble. We can state that the case will come up Monday next.

The Nanaimo Disaster.

Portland Oregonian: The disaster at Nanaimo is one of those dreadful incidents which expose the limitations to man's control of the forces of nature. There was every possible care to flood the mine with pure air. Vigilance was constant in every reasonable form. And yet we have a catastro he so dreadful that it will shock the whole world. A generation not content with the treasures of the earth, but which must delve for those that lie beneath the earth, which shares every sea with every storm that blows, and which harnesses the lightning and rides apace with the winds, cannot always escape the penalties of temerity.

The Caroline.

H. M. S. Caroline, which arrived at Esquimalt yesterday from the south was commissioned at Sheerness in January last. She is a composite corvette, of 1420 tons, and 1440 horse power engines. Her officers are: Captain, Sir Wm. Wiseman, Bart.; lieutenants, R. F. F. Powell, Algernon B. G. Greenfel, John D. M. Hutchinson; staff surgeon, Michael Fitzgerald; paymaster, Horatio Howell; sub-lieutenants, Francis F. Haworth, — Booth; assistant paymaster, Robert R. Hastings; engineer, Wm. H. Matthews; gunner, James Curtis; boatswains, John Bradley, Harry Gosling; carpenter, Matthew H. Crowther.

—Money saved by having your plans made by Fisher, the Architect. *

PERSONALS.

Hon. Mr. Davie, we are pleased to learn, is reported much better.

Mr. B. Young, the extensive salmon canner, is in the city. He goes up the Fraser River on Sunday.

Dr. P. Alexeef and wife, tourist, from Moscow, Russia, arrived from Winnipeg yesterday and are stopping at the Driard.

Mr. L. Samuel, one of Toronto's leading merchants, who has been lying dangerously ill at the Clarence Hotel, is rapidly improving.

Mr. F. W. Stobart, a prominent merchant of Winnipeg, and his wife, and Mr. J. F. Howard, of the same city, arrived last night en route to California. They are stopping at the Driard.

Mr. A. B. Chaffey and Miss Chaffey, and Mr. G. W. Girdlestone, and Miss Girdlestone, of Winnipeg, and Mrs and Miss Colclough, of Selkirk, Man., are at the Clarence. They are excurting to San Francisco.

Mr. R. D. Richardson, president of the Y. M. C. A., Winnipeg, accompanied by Mrs. Richardson, R. H. Shanks, Robert Patterson and Robert Duthie, arrived last night en route to the International Convention at San Francisco. They are stopping at the Clarence and will leave to-morrow on the Geo. W. Elder.

The Rev. Dr. Gordon, of Winnipeg, accompanied by Ex-Alderman McVicar, of the same city were en route to join the California party here. When a short distance east of Calgary Mr. McVicar was seized with a bad attack of hemorrhage of the lungs, of so serious a nature that it was impossible for him to proceed further. He is in delicate health, and his friend, Dr. Gordon, determined to remain with him until a change in his condition took place.

Mr. G. Girdlestone, one of the California excursionists from Winnipeg, resided for many years in Windsor, Ontario. He is now one of Winnipeg's solid men, having been one of the few who came out of the boom unscathed financially. He is general agent for Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia for the City of London Fire Insurance Company, and general manager of the Northwest Fire Insurance Company, which association he organized some years since, and is now in a flourishing condition. On his return from the South Mr. Girdlestone will remain in this city a few days.

Passengers by the Princess Louise from Barrard Inlet last night: G W Miller and wife, F C Harper, Miss Drewery, Mrs J Whelen, daughter and son, R H Shaws, R Peterson, O Ralston and family, Miss Hobart, R D Richardson, F W Hobart, W E Duthie and family, J T Holland, B E Chaffey, Miss Chaffey, A Ferland, G B Hosleck, J Travers, L M Cushing, A Ross, W Sloane, B C Foster, J H Turner, Mrs J Douglas, J C Henderson, D Chisholm, C B Little, S Leiser, Dr P Alexuff and wife, Mrs Bernard, R Hall, Mrs Hollowell, T C Sorby, L Birdsall, W Dufour.

SUPREME COURT

(In chambers—Before the Chief Justice.)

Friday, May 6, 1887.

Barker v. Sourr—Messrs. Hett and Theo. Davie applied for the discharge of the defendant, who had been arrested on Thursday, by capias, upon a judgment recovered by the plaintiff; and offered to deposit the amount of the judgment in court. The application was granted, and time given to apply for a new trial. Mr. Pooley for the plaintiff.

MURNE'S MURDERER.

The Jury's Verdict—Family Troubles the Cause.

New Westminster, May 6.—The coroner's jury in the murder case brought in a verdict of wilful murder against the accused, Wm. Shearer. The murdered man is aged about 55 years, and leaves a wife and family in Semiahmoo. Shearer is a tall, thick-set man of about 30. The latter blames Murne for family and financial troubles. It is expected that the case will be submitted to the grand jury to-morrow and probably come up before the assize which is now sitting.

A Terrific Gale.

All day long to-day, a wind storm of unprecedented severity has prevailed, and gives little indication of abatement before midnight. The wind, coming out of the southeast, has blown "great guns" every five minutes, only going down for brief intervals apparently for the express purpose of gathering fresh force and volume. The streets were swept clean of dust, which floated through the air into the houses and down the throats of panting pedestrians. The street-sprinkler did not put in an appearance during the whole day, although there never was a time when it was so much required. The dust nuisance was simply intolerable; and whoever is responsible for permitting the sprinkler to be broken down since Thursday last—which we understand is the case—will fully merit the anathemas which he will receive. It is simply disgraceful that such carelessness is permitted in corporation matters.

About 3 p. m., and after the above was written, the sprinkler made its appearance on Government street. Its services were highly appreciated, and it is to be hoped it will not again be allowed to remain in the boat-yard when it should be at work on the streets.

For San Francisco.

Passengers by the Geo. W. Elder which will sail at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon for San Francisco: Mr and Mrs R P Rithet, Capt John Irving, Miss McKenzie, Mrs A Adde, H J Hartnell, Geo Lavender and wife, Miss R Brown, Miss Kate Byrne, Mrs M Christopher, R D Richardson and wife, G W Grindlestone and family, Miss and Mrs Chaffey, Messrs Stobard, Shanks, Davideon, Matthews, Patterson, Duthie, Howard, N Sabin and wife, W Turpio, J J Daley, R J Butler, Mr and Mrs M Connolly, J A Cunningham.

Paralysis of the Brain.

Charles Bush, engineer of the fire brigade, who was yesterday attacked with paralysis of the brain, was afterwards removed to the Royal Hospital. For the last few days he had been complaining of a severe pain near the region of his stomach. To-day he is unconscious and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Stole a Gold Watch.

A Chinaman named Ah Gee, employed by Mrs. Hart, who resides at the corner of Vancouver and North Park streets, stole a gold watch and chain from that lady yesterday morning, and pawned it in the Chinese pawnshop. The watch has been recovered and the thief arrested.

Dalby's Stables.

The prices offered at the sale at Dalby's Eureka stables to-day were not satisfactory, and all the horses and carriages were bought in. Parties requiring carriages for hire can be accommodated as usual. *

English Window Glass, 16 oz., all sizes; also Stained and Enamelled Glass, at Muirhead and Mann's Sash and Door Factory.

—We need scarcely announce that the gale of to-day, in a short time, prostrated the electric wires. The equanimity of the wires on this coast has not been satisfactory of late. We dread the approach of the mosquito season. With their long, sharp, pointed proboscis they will most effectually suck the electric fluid from the wires, and this year will witness as many interruptions as did any of its predecessors.
